J. D. GAMBLE DIED FRIDAY OF HEART DISEASE

Pioneer Business Man and Peace Officer Died Suddenly on Vacation Trip In New Mexico

WAS FORMER MAYOR

Held Several Offices of Trust in City During Long Residence In This City

The community was shocked Friday night when word was received that J. D. Gamble had died near Eagle Nest, N. M., while driving R. N. Barnett's automobile. The body was returned to Canyon Saturday night and the funeral was held Monday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at the Methodist church.

Mr. Gamble had accompanied Sheriff Barnett, Deputy W. L. Lyons and Sheriff Harvey Faust of Dalhart on a short vacation trip. The three companions had fished Friday afternoon, but Mr. Gamble had excused himself to go back to the cabin to rest. As he was getting ready to return to the lake after the three men, W. C. Black drove up and invited Mr. Gamble to eat with him before returning to the lake. He was in his usual good spirits and Mr. Black noted nothing unusual in his actions.

It was while driving back to the lake a few minutes later that he was stricken with a heart attack. The car was overturned in the ditch, but from all indications Mr. Gamble was dead before the accident occurred. Drivers of a car nearby saw the dust caused by the wreck, and found Mr. Gamble dead in the car. The body of the car was badly damaged in being overturned, but Mr. Barnett was able to drive it home.

The funeral services were largely attended by friends and former associates of the deceased. Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum conducted the services, assisted by Rev. F. M. Neal, former pastor of the local church, and pastor here when Mr.

State Tax Rate Remains at 62c For Present Year

The automatic tax board set the state property tax rate Tuesday at 62 cents on the $100 valuation, the same as last year.

The rate for the general revenue fund was set at 35 cents and that for Confederate pensions at seven cents, both the constitutional maximums.

The available school tax rate was set at 20 cents, same as last year, but not the constitutional limit.

The board is composed of Governor James V. Allred, Comptroller George H. Sheppard and Treasurer Charley Lockhart.

"The board took into consideration the $19 per capita apportionment, set by the board of education, fixing the ad valorem tax rate for the school fund," a statement said.

"It estimated the general revenue deficit as of Aug. 31, 1936, at $9,505,741.90. Anticipated collections from ad valorem taxes for general revenue under the 35 cents rate was computed to be $8,800,241.85, leaving $705,500.15 of the deficit to be absorbed by other revenue."

The Confederate pension fund would have a deficit of $5,101,430.70 at the end of the fiscal year, the board estimated, and the school fund a cash balance of $1,293,797.55.

"This estimate reflects the balance after the payment of the $18.50 per capita apportionment set by the board of education for the fiscal year just ending," the board said.

New Month Starts In Cash Distribution on Saturday

A new month will start for the merchants' cash distribution on next Saturday afternoon. A large crowd was present last Saturday when the old month was closed, and all of the money in the fund was distributed to the people of Randall county.

Cash distribution will continue each Saturday throughout August at 3:00 o'clock, being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and contributed by 40 business firms.

Vocational Work to Be Offered In Public Schools

Agricultural Subjects To Be Based Upon Needs of the Boys Attending Public Schools

Canyon High School this fall will have a new course in the name of Vocational Agriculture. Milton Morris, a graduate of W. T. has been employed as teacher. He was also a student at the Texas College of Arts and Industries, and a former teacher and coach at Friona High School. He has been in Canyon several weeks and has the work started.

Vocational agriculture is a part of general education and contributes to the aims set up for in general education. Besides the classroom work the boys will be required to have one or more projects of which they must complete records and for the extra amount of time and work they will receive an extra credit toward graduation or a total of 1½ credits for the school year. A boy may take three years of this work and such subjects as the following will be included as

Canyon High Coach For Coming School Term Elected Tues.

Emil Hutto of Vernon was elected as Coach of the Canyon High School for the coming year at a meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday evening.

The school board feels proud that they are fortunate in securing a coach, who comes as highly recommended as does Hutto. Prospects at this time are very promising for a good football team this fall, as there is a large group of boys anxiously awaiting the first practice call.

Superintendent Carruth states that shool will open Sept. 7, the first Monday in the month. He urges all parents, who plan to attend the Centennial after school starts, to see him at the High School and make arrangements with him for the pupils to make up the work and time missed.

Referendum On Work in Senate States Small

Byron Utecht, Austin correspondent of the Star-Telegram, reported the following Tuesday regarding Senator Clint Small:

Austin, Aug. 3—Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo, who was re-elected by a majority of 2,000, while here this week said his contest was by far more strenuous than the two times he ran for Governor. About every vote he cast in the Senate within the eight years he served became an issue, Small explained, but opponents in the Panhandle stressed his attitude on the selective sales tax, the liquor control bill, gas conservation, the truck weight bill, old age assistance and the Texas moratorium act.

"The election unquestionably amounted to a referendum," Small said, "since it was a test on everything I ever stood for, and as a result I return to the Senate with both elation and independence. I was upheld. I sponsored the selective sales tax and evidently the people of the Panhandle want it. I am opposed to throwing open the

Official Returns Makes No Changes in Primary Election

The Randall County convention Saturday lasted less than five minutes, and consisted only of the election of delegates to the State Democratic Convention to be held Sept. 8th. Clyde Warwick and C. R. Flesher were named delegates from Randall county. No resolutions were offered at the convention.

The County Executive committee met immediately and canvassed the returns of the July 25th primary. No changes were found in the official count.

Only one voting box will be opened for the Aug. 22nd primary in No. 1, this being at the court house. D. A. Shirley was appointed judge of this box.

Monday of this week was the first day when absentee votes might be cast in the second primary, but owing to the fact that the State Executive Committee does not meet in Austin until Saturday and the official ballot will not be available in the counties before next Monday, voters will be unable to secure absentee ballots before next Tuesday.

From un-official sources, it is evident that only two state races will be slated for the second primary.

Railroad Commissioner, between Col. Ernest O. Thompson and Frank S. Morris.

Commissioner of Agriculture, J. E. McDonald and George B. Terrell.

One district race is for State Representative, between G. H. Little and Herman Wright.

There will be only one run-off in Randall county, that of Commissoner, Precinct No. 2, between Clarence Beckman and W. H. Neal.

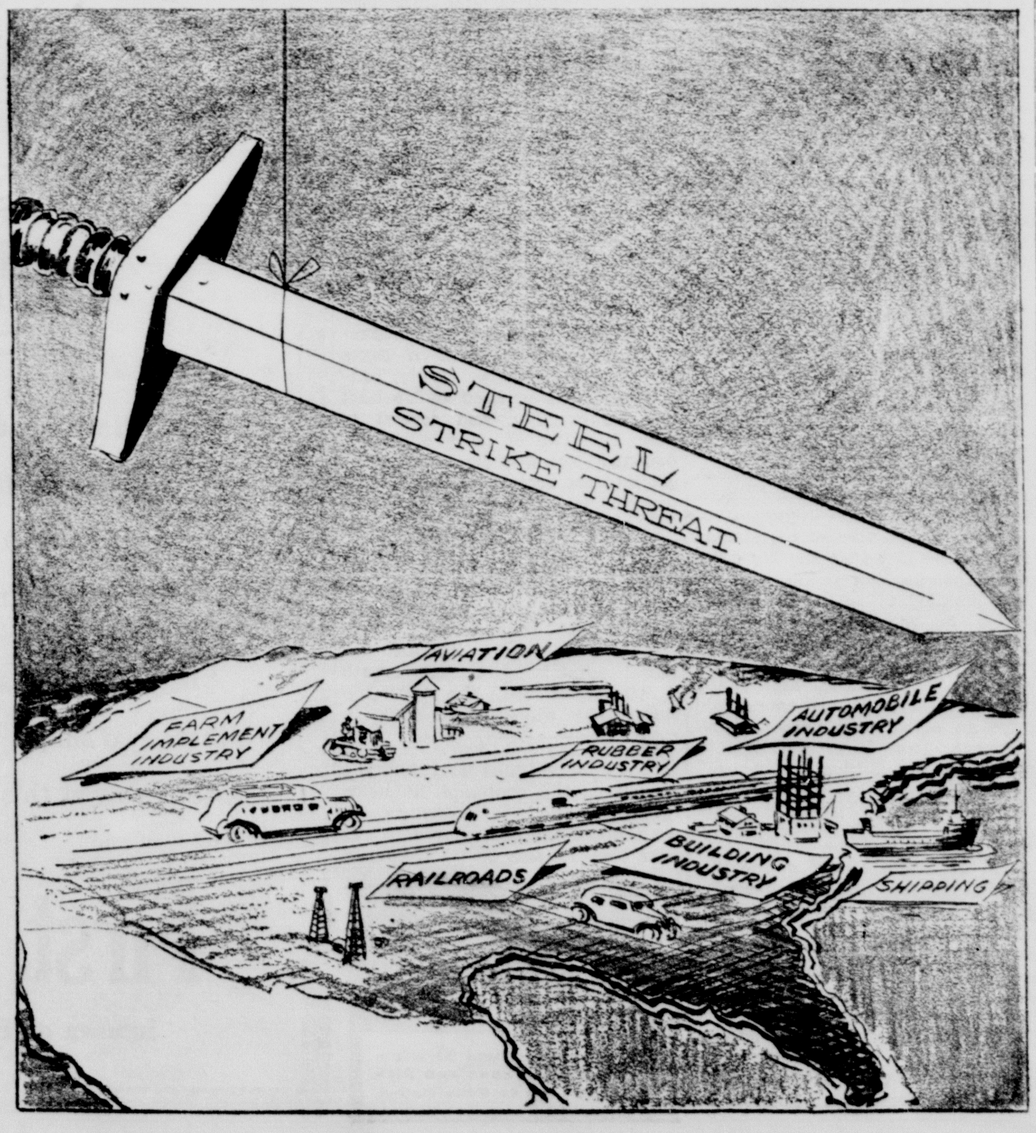
HEAVY, HEAVY HANGS—



THIRD WHEAT ACREAGE MADE GOOD YIELD

Biggest Feed Crop of Recent Years In Prospect If Rains Fall During This Month

CONDITIONS BETTER

Dry Weather Damages a Small Part Early Row Crop; Late Planting Did Not Come Up

Randall county produced 1,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, which is about one-third of a normal crop, according to the best information which may be secured at this time from elevators, farmers and others interested in the wheat situation. Randall county will probably be the banner wheat production county in the state of Texas with this crop production. The official check on the acreage and production will be available this fall but it looks now that the above estimate is about correct.

Practically two-thirds of the wheat acreage produced nothing this year, owing to the wind erosion of the spring. The production of the million bushels on the remaining one-third, with the prevailing price of $1.00 per bushel made greater returns to many farmers than they had on wheat in a number of years.

The future of the row crop is now being watched very carefully. A small percent of the early crop has been damaged by the continued drouth, but most of the early crop is doing well and will stand up for some time. The row crop acreage is about two-thirds of the normal crop. The loss of one-third is due to the late planting of those who had more acreage than they could handle immediately following the good rains of June. Much of the late crop never sprouted as the ground had dried out before being planted.

A good rain right now would make one of the best row crops this county has had in years. With the scarcity of corn facing the nation, the farmers are wishing for rain to save the fine crop which is now growing. With the outlook for a good price, a big feed crop would bring more money this year than has been realized from the wheat crop.

Dairymen Will Hold Annual Picnic Friday, August 22nd

Members of the Randall County Dairymen's Association will hold their annual picnic on Friday, Aug. 21, at the Gordon-Cumhings place. The picnic this year will be featured by a basket dinner for the families of the members as well as their invited guests. Admission to the grounds will be by card signed by the Secretary, T. G. Lair.

Members will be furnished admission cards for their guests.

Future Farmer Club Will Be Organized on Saturday Night

The first meeting of the Future Farmer Club which is part of the vocational agriculture work in the school, will be held in the high school Saturday evening, Aug. 8, at 8:30 p. m. It is the purpose of this meeting for the instructor to get acquainted with the boys and get them started with their Future Farmer work.

Milton Morris, the vocational agriculture teacher, asks that all boys interested in the work to be at the meeting and bring a boy with him that might be interested. Mr. Morris states that after calling on some 30 boys he finds the interest high among the boys. It was impossible for him to see all the boys before the meeting, but for those boys that he did not see to be sure and attend the meeting.

PANHANDLE MEMBER PRESS ASSOCIATION

THE CASE OF TERRELL VS. McDONALD

A prominent farmer stated Saturday that The News was mistaken in offering to support George B. Terrell, and gave some mighty strong reasons why Terrell should not be elected.

Terrell, while a member of the legislature, introduced a bill making it compulsory for counties to submit to a vote of the people the employment of a county agent. True enough the bill was killed in committee, but that shows his attitude toward the county agents.

Terrell, while a legislator, opposed A. & M. College wherever he could possibly do so.

Terrell, while congressman at large, opposed President Roosevelt, and was one of the few to vote against AAA. He has boasted of his opposition to the administration. AAA brought $88,000,000 to the farmers of Texas in one year, and Terrell was opposed to this aid to the farmers of Texas.

Terrell, while commissioner of agriculture for two terms, ran his department against the best policy for aiding the farmers of the state.

This man says that the farmers of Texas are opposed to Terrell because he is no friend to the farmers. This man says that McDonald is largely ignorant, and while the investigation was conducted by the House of Representatives, it was shown that while his administration was very poor, yet he was working for the interest of the farmers.

The News gives its readers this information, as we know the man speaking knew the facts of the case.

If the magic name of "Terrell" wins in this case, it will be largely because the people are unacquainted with the record of the candidates.

WHAT ABOUT THE PRIMARY?

Is the direct primary a failure?

There are few who will defend the action of the candidates during 1936, and many sober people are wondering if the primary is not a wonderful failure.

The old convention system was charged as a rotten system. Yet the convention system picked more strong, capable public servants for Texas than the primary has done.

The charge was made that the convention system was too expensive, yet the candidates have found the primary far more expensive than the convention system.

Those who uphold the primary state that the people should have a right to select their public officials. Time has shown that the people are not always right, and that mass psychology can be as far wrong as the careful investigation of a few leaders, who had been endorsed by the public as a whole.

The strongest indictment against the direct primary is that some low down diabolical cus can get into a race against a high class gentleman, and through the process of mudslinging practically ruin the standing of the good citizen. Campaigns are being carried on along such lines that most citizens who are capable and qualified for public service will shun a political race, because they know of the assault which will be made upon their characters.

The direct primary is still on trial. It has not yet proven its worth.

The News wishes to state again that every citizen in Randall county should go to the polls on Aug. 22 in spite of the fact that few offices are to be filled. Those offices which were not definitely filled on July 25th are as important as any in the state. The candidates should be given the same careful consideration in the coming primary as they were last month. Several races were changed in Randall county last month because all of the qualified voters did not go to the polls. There is no use crying about results of elections unless the people take the necessary interest in the elections, and take the time to go to the polls. Vote on August 22nd.

The News again calls the attention of the readers to the six constitutional amendments printed in this issue, and trusts that all readers will carefully consider these amendments. We are vitally interested in seeing some of these amendments passed, and from time to time will discuss the amendments before the November election. The one which is of special interest to West Texas is H. J. R. No. 9 which would limit the number of Representatives in the large counties. New York and Illinois long ago placed the limit that any county may have in the legislature. In Texas there are four large counties which threaten to virtually control the legislature if the limit is not placed upon their representation. The House of Representatives has not been redistricted in recent years hoping that this limit bill might pass. Under the present ratio, Harris county would receive 9 representatives, and if Houston keeps on growing at its present rate, and no limit is placed upon its representation, it will not be fifty years until Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant will control the House. The vital argument for limiting the number of representatives is the fact that the big cities draw thousands of people who are not qualified to vote, have no interest in the government, contribute nothing to the government, whereas practically all people in the smaller counties are vitally interested in their government and take an active part in their government. Read these amendments, and think about them.

The News believes that every voter in Randall county has a solemn obligation on Aug. 22 to make a careful study of the two candidates for State Representative, and then go to the polls and express a choice. Last month all of the voters became so excited about the race for senator that few took any particular interest in the three who were running for Representative. The senate is naturally looked upon as a more important office than Representative, since there are only 31 senators in the state as compared with 150 representatives. But so far as the two houses are concerned, it is as important that safe, sane men be elected to the House as it is that highly qualified men be selected to the Senate. The writer served four years in the House, and from this close up study of the situation, we firmly believe that the House is too often overlooked in the matter of importance by the voters. The same careful consideration should be given to the House members as is usually given to the Senators. Study the qualifications of the two candidates in the race for Representative. One of them will be co-laborer of your senator when the legislature is in session.

The horse and buggy boys, Landon and Knox, have hitched the old gray mare to the shay and started on the wearysome journey to the White House. Both have spoken their piece to the public, but badly stuttered and stammered as to what they would be able to do, except denounce the Roosevelt administration. Even the Republicans are disappointed in the evasiveness of the platform of their party, written by Hearst and endorsed by Wall Street. But after all, platforms count for little in a national campaign. National campaigns are a fight of personalities, with the glamorous voice of President Roosevelt smothering the hesitating voice of candidate Landon. The battle is on.

Practically all of the congressional races were settled in Texas in the first primary. Every congressman was opposed by at least one Townsendite, and several of them had two or more other opponents. Not a single Townsendite got into the second primary. Even the star wheel horse of the state, Senator Claude Westerfeld of Dallas, ran a poor race against Congressman Hatton Sumner, and there will be no run-off in Dallas county in spite of the three opponents to the congressman. With the official returns in, the national administration will breath a little easier as to the swath the third party will cut this year.

George Bernard Shaw likes to sail the ocean blue and tell the Americans the contempt he holds for this nation. Nothing pleases the crafty Englishman more than to poke fun at this young Republic which has been so kind to him in buying his books and plays. Now he advocates communism for America. Why not England, old chap? Shaw has gratefully gathered up millions of dollars from the American public and invested them in English securities. Communism may appeal to Shaw for the United States, but never for England so long as he is rated a millionaire.

Our good neighboring town, Happy, will celebrate its birthday on August 12. Hundreds of Randall county people should take advantage of this celebration and pay a visit to Happy. There is not a finer community on the Plains than is Happy, and the people have always been good neighbors to Canyon, and a good trading point for the farmers living in the south part of Randall county. Take a little time off and visit Happy on Aug. 12.

Entire Nation May Feel Repercussion of Drive to Organize Steel Workers

Inside a steel mill symbolizing vastness of the industry labor leaders seek to organize.

LABOR bigwigs have taken their drive to organize America's steel workers straight into the mills. With several weeks' preliminaries out of the way, and the actual organization work started, there has been no violence and little talk of violence.

Past labor movements in this traditionally turbulent industry have been marked by death and destruction of property. In this latest unionization campaign however, there has been thus far no hint of bloodshed. Talk of strike is heard, but labor leaders insist a strike is out of the question now. There may be none until spring, perhaps not even then.

But, despite the outward quiet and the remoteness of a strike millions of American workers besides the half million steel workers, are watching every development in the organization drive. Steel is the greatest industry in the United States. Many other large allied industries would come almost to a standstill if there were a nationwide steel strike.

Among industries that would be vitally affected are the automobile, tool, shipping, and mining industries, just to mention a few. These, of course, have industries that are, in turn, dependent upon them.

Indeed, it would be hard to find an American citizen who would not be affected in some way by a tie-up in steel.

THIS is the big reason the unionization drive is going ahead slowly, deliberately, and quietly. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his Committee for Industrial Organization, leaders of the movement, want their position to be so strong when bargaining is started that a strike will not be necessary.

Lewis' committee is trying to "sell" the union idea to steel's 450,000 workers in this country, and to an additional 400,000 in steel processing and fabricating. The labor leaders hope to have every man, from the highly skilled, $20-a-day rollers and manipulators down to the lowest-paid shoveler, behind them when they meet with company officials.

In pleading their case, the unionists have sent a quarter million pieces of literature to the workers. A newspaper will be started soon to publicize the campaign. Headquarters have been set up in all large steel centers.

Union membership applications are in the hands of 75,000 steel workers, almost all of whom now are members of company unions, which are organizations sponsored by the steel companies for employe representation.

Company unions, prevalent throughout the industry, will go by the boards if Lewis and his associates succeed in their plan to bring all steel workers into one great bargaining agency.

ALMOST all the C. I. O. organizers have come up through the ranks of Lewis' United Mine Workers. They are veterans of many labor jousts, have seen plenty of blood spilled, and can be mighty tough on their own accounts if the going becomes rocky.

Steel's labor trouble in 1892 was a classic of violence. The big 1919 strike was less bloody, but even more bitter. Despite the apparently peaceful attitudes of labor leaders and company officials, there yet may be much strife in the 1936 renewal of organization efforts.

And, while union officials say steel will be organized and industry tycoons say it will not, the workers, in whose hands the decision lies, ponder whether to risk their first steady employment for several years in an effort to bring about higher pay, shorter hours, better working conditions, and collective bargaining. All these, labor leaders tell them, will be theirs if they pay $1 each and join the new union of steel industry workers.

Ford Motor Company,
Oklahoma City, Okla.
Gentlemen:

We are having such satisfactory service out of our Ford V-8 car and truck I would like for you to know about it.

We used another make of cars and trucks for more than two years, but the cost of operation was too great. After talking with several of our friends and observing the operation of their V-8 Fords we decided to try them.

To say we are pleased is putting it mildly, for the operating cost is only about half as much, to say nothing of the ease of handling and that feeling of safety.

We get about 17 miles per gallon of gasoline with the new V-8 truck loaded and 18 to 20 with the car. Have never added a drop of oil between changes. The truck has been driven 12,000 miles and only 65¢ has been spent for repairs on it.

This old gray mare was rescued from a rather serious predicament at the bottom of a cistern only after a derrick was brought to the scene. Strapped securely, she was lifted out of her concrete prison none the worse for several days' captivity. Queen, the unfortunate mare, had stumbled into the 12-foot cistern on the farm of her owner, R. T. Bradshaw, Wyandotte county, Kan.

Biggest Summer Capital News Centers Around Labor Leaders

BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—With most of the officials who ordinarily "make news" away from the capital, midsummer in Washington has given leaders of the labor movement—or, rather, the two labor movements—a glorious opportunity for publicity. They haven't overlooked the chance.

The tieup this year between developments in the labor field and those in the political field is closer than ever before. Most labor leaders favor the re-election of President Roosevelt, whom they regard as more favorable to their cause than Governor Landon — especially since the latter's acceptance speech, which they interpreted as indorsing company unions and the "open shop."

The news the labor leaders have produced in Washington has been of great importance, since it involves, besides the political aspect, a war of union organization with corporations controlling the great mass production industries and a bitter fight, apparently to a finish, within labor's own ranks.

There would be little labor news, however, if it were not for powerful and forceful President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America.

LEWIS many months ago became prime mover and chief of the Committee for Industrial Organization, a body which now includes 12 national unions, represents more than 1,000,000 organized workers, and is committed to organization on an industrial basis of the steel, automobile, rubber, cement, oil, and other industries.

He and his allies have clashed with President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and with the heads of craft unions who want the workers in those industries under their own jurisdiction, if they are to be organized at all—an objective not even attempted by the crafts union. Recently the fight became so bitter that a permanent and formal split between the Lewis and craft union groups seems certain. Probably there will be a second labor federation, with Lewis at its head.

Besides sending a large crew of organizers into the steel mill cities and towns, the Lewis group also has engaged in a battle of words and publicity with the steel corporations.

And, simultaneously, Lewis and the next strongest C I O leader, Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, have joined with President George Berry of the pressmen's union to form Labor's Non-Partisan League, which now is attempting to mass the labor vote solidly behind Roosevelt and which may form a nucleus for a third party in 1940.

Relations between Lewis and Roosevelt are cordial. The former is assured of a benevolent administration attitude, and the president is assured of important political support in industrial states—most importantly in Pennsylvania.

SAYING that Postmaster General Jim Farley wants to get back into private business and make some money, his intimates are insisting that Farley will quit his cabinet post, from which he is now on leave, if Roosevelt is re-elected.

While this may be General Jim's intention at the moment, there are many persons around Washington who refuse to accept his friends' forecasts as certain to come true.

It is recalled, for instance, that Farley's current divorce from affairs of the Postoffice Department came nearly a year after he first told friends he was stepping out. And it is common knowledge that the Democratic generalissimo would like to build a reputation that would establish him as a "great postmaster general."

Fellowship Subject Discussed Tuesday at Rotary Luncheon

Rev. Stewart Marsh discussed the subject of Fellowship Tuesday at the luncheon of the Rotary Club. He was introduced by Rev. Chas. L. Dickey, who announced that Mr. Marsh would soon leave to continue his work in the Yale Theological College.

Mr. Marsh complimented the Rotary Club in its work of fellowship. The meaning of fellowship is helpfulness and friendship toward all people. It works for the benefit of public welfare.

"If you are to have friends, you must show yourself friendly," stated the speaker. "You must see the good qualities in the other fellow." Christ was used as an illustration of always pointing to the good in men. Christ was always looking for the best in men.

"It doesn't take an intellect to run down the other fellow, to see his mistakes, and criticise his mistakes," stated the speaker. Fellowship not only sees the good, but also helps men develop good. It is not confined to a chosen few.

Mr. Marsh asked the question, "Who is your neighbor?" and answered in the words of Christ. He urged that hatred and grudges be forgotten, and drew from the lives of great men many illustrations.

The role of good neighbor, as advocated by President Roosevelt, is greatly needed today in the political, economic and social life of the world.

Visitors present were: Irving Tolzien, R. E. Wertz, Ben Anderson, all of Amarillo; Rev. Marsh of Canyon.

Mrs. R. B. Gist Is Presented Chest of Silver As Award

Mrs. R. B. Gist was first place winner in this county on wardrobe work and was fourth place winner at the Short Course held recently at A. & M. College, and received a chest of silver as a reward.

The following article is Mrs. Gist's own story of her wardrobe work and improvement during the past year:

MY WORK AS WARDROBE DEMONSTRATOR
Mrs. Roger B. Gist

Last July when asked to be Wardrobe Demonstrator of Sunny Hill Club, I hesitated and almost refused. First, on account of my dislike for sewing and second, because my closet space was so very limited, I didn't see how I could ever manage it for a family of four. After a while I remembered that "A good club member always does her best," so I accepted the offer and decided if planning and working would make a good demonstrator, by August, 1936, I for one, would be much improved.

The first thing I did was to look over my storage situation and to put to the very best advantage the little 2½ by 4 foot space I already had before scheming for more room. After studying this precious little storage, I finally decided what plan I would pursue.

Early one morning, after taking a picture of an ugly little hole in the wall, I started out to improve it the way I had planned. First, I canvassed it carefully and papered both ceiling and walls with a very light paper which had been left from my dining and living rooms. The children found and sawed some four inch base boards which made the bottom of the closet very close and neat looking. My husband's job was to get the material and put up the shelves I had planned. On one side of the door we put a rod 4½ feet from the floor and 2 fourteen-inch shelves above. The shelves are used for bedding and linnens. The rod is used for our eight and ten year old boys' clothing and just the right height for them to easily reach. On the other side of the door there is only an 8 inch space so we put three 8-inch shelves there to use for shoes. Just under the lower shelf are screw hooks that take care of the little school coats and caps. A light from the delco is hung from the center of the closet, thus eliminating all danger of fire. A chest of drawers and dresser in each bedroom provides adequate storage for the folded clothes, hose, accessories and the many little useless valuables that children must have to be happy.

As this arrangement left my husband and me without a place to hang our clothing, I suggested that he go with me to see the portable closet in the Home Demonstrator's office. This seemed to be exactly the thing we needed, so within a few days we owned one very much like it. Instead of a division in the center, ours has a rod across the entire closet, and is a little taller, making more room at the top for hats. After gathering up coats, dresses and shirts from three rooms and arranging them neatly in our closet, I felt like my year's work was well on its way to a very successful voyage.

I spent the first part of the winter making two rugs, a mat, a quilt and an afghan, part of which I put away for entry in the Tri-State Fair. By this time I became very anxious to get into my wardrobe work and found myself planning things for my club members, my non-club neighbors and myself that we might have better clothes at a lower cost than we had ever had before. And especially did I want to impress upon the women and girls the importance of personal neatness, as well as color and style becoming to their special types.

Our patterns were all greatly in need of repair. By having extra meetings I managed to get them in fairly good shape. I checked and made changes in six, making almost new ones of two, and made four new ones. I have also made five new patterns for newly organized neighbor clubs, and five non-club members. My greatest prized pattern is one I made for my mother who is 76 years old and makes practically all her dresses. She seems very proud of her first foundation pattern.

Maybe my clothes budget has not been kept down as low as some of the farm women's have, but being Council chairman this year and a member of the County Agriculture Association, I have had to do considerable more going than the average club member. From Sept. 1, 1935 until the present time I have attended 73 Extension Service meetings, besides the other activities in our community and neighboring towns.

To show you the savings that I made on my wardrobe this year the cost for the two years is: $69.25 for last year, when I bought all of my clothes ready made. This year I made all of my clothes, with the material costing $33.46 with a total value of $57.65 for the finished articles, making a saving of $24.19 on my wardrobe for one year.

I have also made eleven garments for non-club members with a saving of $7.20 and and renovated two for myself and three for non-club members.

My club has been very good to co-operate with me. Nine wraps, 76 cotton and silk dresses, 36 undergarments, 99 children's garments have been made, and 33 garments renovated, with a saving of $208.95 on these 253 garments. I believe our clothing goals are very well filled. The following were our goals and the work we have done:

1. Three in each club plan and keep records. Five of our members are keeping records.
2. Improve Storage. Six closets have been improved and one new one made.
3. Make three garments using foundation pattern. Forty-six garments have been made from foundation patterns by ten members.
4. Make dress and slip for contest. Ten of our members are entering the dress contest.

As a result of my wardrobe much improvement has been made in our home and entire place, that would not have been made had I not taken up this work. In looking for forward to achievement day I wanted to have the inside as well as the yard and surroundings looking as well as possible when my friends inspected my wardrobe. By working a little at a time I have repainted the woodwork in my kitchen, bathroom, a small hall and two bedrooms. We have also papered a hall, the kitchen ceiling, and gotten a rug for the kitchen floor. We have bought a bedroom suite for the children's room, a modern desk to take the place of an old roll-top one in the living room, and curtains for four rooms.

After finishing the inside of the house we started outside to see what kind of a change could be made there. Since an unusually bad sandstorm three years ago, we had become discouraged and neglected our once lovely lawn and flowers. By getting a little help to move some of the sand, the children and I have made the yard presentable again. I am resurrecting my flowers that survived and getting a bigger and better start of perrenials than I ever had.

This yard improvement caused us to notice how badly the house was in need of paint. Now our once dingy and neglected looking house has a new white coat of paint, and all the out houses too, have been painted and look like new. I think I can truthfully say that most of this improvement is the result of my accepting the wardrobe work.

The past year has been a very busy one, but I have thoroughly enjoyed working in my own and neighboring clubs and helping them with their wardrobe problems. I have profited greatly in this fascinating work. I feel that it is something that goes on and on, and that wardrobe work is one of the things that is putting the farm woman of today and her family on a higher level than they have ever been before, thanks to the Extension Service. I shall continue in this work of making myself and others happier. Why shouldn't I?

Bull in China Shop—No Kidding!

What a sissy this supposedly tough Hereford bull turned out to be! Lured into a china shop by pretty Louise Small, with the prospect of a big feed, he dozed a while and then dropped into a peaceful slumber without disturbing so much as a saltcellar. Of course, no self-respecting bull would enter a china shop in the first place. But this one's a movie bull. He was "working" on a picture with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns. Burns bet Crosby that the bull really would tear up a china shop, and this picture is the result. Crosby pocketed the stakes.

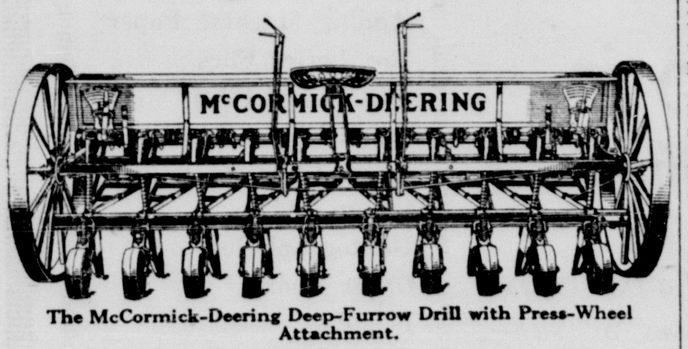
Use a McCormick-Deering Deep-Furrow Drill



The McCormick-Deering Deep-Furrow Drill with Press-Wheel Attachment.

McCORMICK-DEERING Deep-Furrow Drills solve the problem of planting winter wheat where rainfall is limited. The deep-furrow openers deposit the seed in the moist earth below the dry surface soil where it can germinate more quickly and strongly. Repeated tests have proved that this method produces maximum crop yields.

The McCormick-Deering deep-furrow opener is a large diameter single disk set at an angle to the line of draft and with ample undercut to make deep furrows with ridges between. It can also be attached easily to any McCormick-Deering Drill of six, seven, or eight-inch spacing that has an even number of openers.

We shall be glad to show you the McCormick-Deering Deep-Furrow Drill and also the gang press wheel attachment which is available for it.

"The Slave With Two Faces" To Be Given Thursday

Play goers will see "The Slave with Two Faces" at Dramatics Club Thursday. This play, a symbolic poetic allegory, a type that has not been produced in the dramatics department before, was directed by Leon Lassers, professor in the college speech department.

The theme of the play deals with the problem of life against the world. Lassers will play the part of Life, and Trannie Mae Russel and Lynette Cain are the first and the second girls respectively in the cast. Members of the Dramatics Club will play in the mob scene. The players are all in costume.

The play will be held in the Education Building Auditorium and will begin at 3:30 o'clock on Thursday.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas by striking out Section 20 thereof; providing for local option on the question of the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes; providing that spirituous liquors, or liquors composed in whole or in part of the products of distillation shall not be sold for private profit, except to the State; providing that the Legislature shall pass laws relative to the sale, possession, transportation and manufacture of such spirituous liquors; providing for the establishment of State dispensaries; providing for the manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of all liquors which are exclusively products of the fermentation process; providing that intoxicating liquors shall not be manufactured, sold, bartered, or exchanged for beverage purposes in any county or political subdivision wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas, until a majority of the qualified voters of such county or political subdivision shall determine such to be lawful at an election held for that purpose; providing for an election on the question of the adoption or rejection of such amendment and making an appropriation therefor; providing for the proclamation and publication thereof; and prescribing the form of ballot.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by striking out Section 20 thereof and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

"Article XVI. Section 20:

"(a) It is hereby declared to be the policy of this State that the open saloon shall not be reestablished. The sale of spirituous liquors, manufactured in whole or in part by means of the process of distillation and/or liquors compounded and/or composed in part of such spirituous distilled liquors, for private profit, is prohibited within this State except when such sale is made to the State. The State of Texas shall have the exclusive right to purchase at wholesale and to sell at retail such distilled spirituous liquors. Such sale shall be made only in unbroken packages and no such liquors shall be consumed on the premises where sold. The Legislature shall pass laws to prescribe regulations relative to the manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of such spirituous liquors and relative to the establishment of State dispensaries; provided, however, the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the sale for private profit and possession of distilled liquors for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes.

"The manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of all liquors, the alcoholic content of which is entirely and exclusively the result of the fermentation process is hereby authorized under such restrictions as may be authorized by law.

"(b) The Legislature shall enact a law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, may, by a majority vote of those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be prohibited or legalized within the prescribed limits; and such laws shall contain provisions for voting on the sale of intoxicating liquors of various types and various alcoholic content.

"(c) In all counties, justices's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the State of Texas and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in such county or political subdivision thereof voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature."

Sec. 2. Such proposed Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas, on the third day of November, 1936, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment, shall write, or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the State Constitution providing for the establishment of a State Dispensary System having the exclusive sale of Distilled Liquors, and providing for Local Option."

And those voters opposed to said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment to the State Constitution providing for the establishment of a State Dispensary System having the exclusive sale of Distilled Liquors, and providing for Local Option."

If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for such election, and shall have the same published and such election held as provided by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 4. The sum of Eight Thousand ($8,000.00) Dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for the expenses of said publication and election.

Martin Thinks Those Few Rookies Who Have Shown Well This Year Are Good Enough to Stick Around for Some Time

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE 1936 baseball rookies who have consistently been getting their names into the headlines are not very many, but those who have are of the highest type and are pretty good bets to hang around the big show for a protracted period.

Chubby Dean, Athletic first sacker, stacks up mightily at the plate, for instance, and is doing a satisfactory job defensively. Connie could do with a few more such rookies.

One of the most outstanding first-year men is Roy Weatherly, fresh from New Orleans, whose bat supplied a lot of the fireworks which sent the Cleveland Indians off on their recent victory rampage.

AND, of course, there's Joe DiMaggio, Yankee freshman gardener. It may or may not be due to Joe's presence, but, for the first time in many seasons, the Yanks seem to have shaken off that second-place complex and they are riding along—although not so smoothly of late—as prohibitive favorites in the flag chase. DiMaggio hasn't abandoned the fence-busting tactics which made him a prime favorite with the San Francisco fans.

Jim Henry, up for the first time with the Boston Red Sox, leads that club's hurlers in the matter of percentage, and as the late season doubleheaders roll around, this promising young fellow will get more opportunities to show his wares—which have looked pretty good up to now.

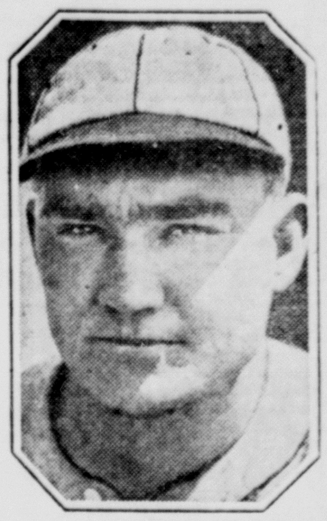
THE same applies to Denny Galehouse, Cleveland hurler. Denny has put on a number of good mound exhibitions, and, as Steve O'Neill isn't blessed with a wealth of dependable starting pitchers, Denny will be given every opportunity to make good.



Most of the 1936 freshman baseball stars are first basemen. Here are two of the newcomers who have shone around the initial sack. Johnny Mize, above, of the St. Louis Cards, and Chubby Dean, right, of the Philadelphia Athletics. Mize also has filled in at right field for the Cards.

Johnny Mize, filling in at first and right field for the St. Louis Cards, has stayed in there with the best Red Bird hitters. Stu Martin, with the same club, looks good enough to keep Frankie Frisch's second-base post.

Roy Atwood, Philly backstop, is right up near the top in the National League batting column, and he's sure to stick, because one of the many things needed by the Phillies to get out of the mire is a more sustained offensive at the old platter.

And still another young first baseman is making the boys sit up and take notice with his clubbing. Buddy Hassett is his patronymic and he labors for the Brooklyn cause—if there is such a thing. He will be heard from some more.

If these youngsters can carry on as they have thus far, they will have plenty of reason to ask for raises when the matter of 1937 contracts is being discussed.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Section 48, Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas, authorizing the establishment of Teachers' Retirement Systems, and making an appropriation for the election.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto immediately after Section 48, a section to be known as Section 48a, and to read as follows:

"Section 48a: In addition to the powers given to the Legislature, under Section 48 of Article III, it shall have the right to levy taxes to provide a Retirement Fund for persons employed in public schools, colleges and universities, supported wholly or partly by the State; provided that the amount contributed by the State to such Retirement Fund shall equal the amount paid for the same purpose from the income of each such person, and shall not exceed at any time five per centum of the compensation paid to each such person by the State, and/or school districts, and shall in no one year exceed the sum of One Hundred Eighty ($180.00) Dollars for any such person; provided no person shall be eligible for a pension under this Amendment who has not taught twenty years in the State of Texas, but shall be entitled to a refund of the moneys paid into the fund.

All funds provided from the compensation of said persons, or by the State of Texas, for such Retirement Fund, as are received by the Treasury of the State of Texas, shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties or cities of this State, or in bonds issued by any agency of the United States Government, the payment of the principal of and interest on which is guaranteed by the United States; provided that a sufficient amount of said funds shall be kept on hand to meet the immediate payment of the amounts that may become due each year under such retirement plan as may be provided by law; and provided that the recipients of such retirement fund shall not be eligible for any other pension retirement funds or direct aid from the State of Texas, unless such retirement fund, contributed by the State, is released to the State of Texas as a condition to receiving such other pension aid."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at the next General Election to be held on Tuesday, after the first Monday in November, which is November 3rd, 1936, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution authorizing Retirement and the creation of a Retirement Fund for persons employed in public schools and colleges and universities supported wholly or partly by the State."

Those opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution Authorizing Retirement and the creation of a Retirement Fund for persons employed in public schools and in colleges and universities supported wholly or partly by the State."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary Proclamation for said election and to have same published as required by the Constitution for amendments thereto.

Referendum

gates so that everybody over 65 shall receive a pension from the State, and this, too, was endorsed. I believe old age assistance, or pensions, should be confined to the needy people. The retail drug stores were against me because I voted for package stores and the package stores were against me too. The truck lines were against me because I did not favor letting them have the weight of trucks they demanded for use on the highways.

"At one occasion in Pampa there was a truck parade against me and they hung me in effigy. As a result of this parade my friends decided it was time to get out and fight. Before then they thought I would win anyway, so why waste time and effort."

Small said he still believes the selective sales tax is the solution of state revenue needs and that he will oppose paying pensions to all persons 65 or over. In this he agrees with Governor Allred.

Small has led legislative fights on many major measures during his eight years here. One of them was on a bill to remove the prison system from Huntsville to Austin, which would have cost the State $15,000,000. Small, opposing this measure while Dan Moody was Governor, got through the Legislature a compromise which retains the system at Huntsville, but furnished some needed improvements. He also was the author of the riverbed bill to protect the mineral rights of farmers and ranchers in West Texas, as well as other land right bills. He is opposed to the program of increasing the taxes on natural resources to a prohibitive figure where these industries, supporting large pay rolls, will suffer.

Small, along with other members ridicules the claim that the sales tax is a tax on poverty, taking the stand that a poverty-stricken person can buy nothing and therefore is not subject to the tax.

"It is a tax on spending," he says, "and therefore it is only those with money to spend are taxed. However, I do believe that necessities of life should not be taxed, and, and in the bill I introduced at the last session foods, medicines, and clothing were not in the bill. There is no way possible under the tax proposed how anyone could say it is a tax on poverty."
